

Farmworker Housing Quality and Health: A Transdisciplinary Conference

Conference Goal

Draw together experts who contribute to research, practice, and advocacy focused on farmworker housing and health in order to delineate current knowledge and propose next steps.

Who Should Attend

Anyone dedicated to improving the housing and health of migrant and seasonal farmworkers, including those working in architecture and planning, government, law, medicine, nursing, public health, social and behavioral sciences, and toxicology.

Date	Tuesday, November 11, 2014
Time	7:30 am - 5:00 pm
Location	Hyatt Regency Crystal City 2799 Jefferson Davis Highway Arlington, VA 22202 (703) 418-1234 crystalcity.hyatt.com

For Registration: FarmHousingPreCon

Early registration: $50.00 (ends October 1, 2014)

Late registration: $70.00

Financial Support:

National Institute for Environmental Health Sciences; United States Department of Agriculture; Southwest Center for Agricultural Health, Injury Prevention, and Education; Western Center for Agricultural Health and Safety; California Rural Legal Assistance; Southeast Center for Agricultural Health & Injury Prevention

